STEVE'S PAINTING "CRASH" SELECTED FOR JURIED SHOW

"Crash" was recently selected for the Allentown Art Museum's 30th Juried Art Show. "Crash" was one of 66 works selected from over 3,100 works entered for this event. "Crash" will be on display at the Allentown Art Museum from February 1 through April 26. The Museum is located at 31 N. Fifth Street, Allentown, PA 18101. Look for more information on this show at allentownartmuseum.org or the Awards, Events, and News section of stevescheuringfineart.com.

"Crash" is my most complex and time-consuming painting to date, taking nearly 240 hours to complete. Love playing Hot Wheels with my son. Sometimes he just likes to dump the cars in a big pile. Was going for a more abstract composition, but couldn't resist drawing the viewers eye to the monster truck.

Hi everyone. Hope you all enjoyed the Holidays. Happy 2009. There's a bunch going on this Winter/Spring. Excited about being selected in the Allentown Museum's juried show. Stop out. And, I'm working on my largest, most complex painting to date, "A Pile of Soldiers." Check the website to view progress on this painting.

You're free to perceive this painting however you want. Yes, it's just a simple pile of toy cars. Yet some see a more adult-themed car crash. "Crash" is 19.5" X 47" and is available as a signed, numbered, limited edition of 100 giclée on canvas under the "Available For Purchase" section of the website. Go to stevescheuringfineart.com to learn more about this painting.

COMING SOON – "A PILE OF SOLDIERS"

For those of you who've visited the website recently, you'll notice there haven't been a whole lot of new paintings. Good reason for that. I'm working on my largest and most complex painting to date – "A Pile of Soldiers." This 48" X 60" painting is a still life of toy soldiers and army-themed comic books. Started working on this painting in early September, and recently finished the underpainting. Special thanks to my Uncle Joe for lending me some of his vintage comic books. It's a blast painting this - bringing back some great memories. Included a number of the large G.I. Joe figures. My brother and I used to play with them for hours when I was a kid. And, I've included comic books with covers painted by Frank Frazetta, my boyhood idol. Here are a few early shots of segments of the painting – these represent maybe 1/100th of the painting.

UPCOMING EVENTS

Mark your calendars. Been selected to participate in a number of upcoming shows – hope you can stop out.

ORIGINAL OIL PAINTINGS AVAILABLE FOR SALE

Have had a number of people inquire about purchasing original oil paintings. Not all paintings are available, but there are a number for sale. And, some of those pieces are framed. When visiting the "Available Artwork For Purchase" section of the website, check the product description for the piece you're interested in. If it says "oil on canvas" and doesn't reference giclée or an edition size, it's the original artwork that's available. Not every painting available for sale is listed on the website. If you're interested in acquiring a particular piece and it's not on the website, please inquire. Also, there are a few giclée pieces where I've added oil paint hand embellishments that are already stretched and framed available on the site. For these pieces, the edition number (ex. "7 of 100") is listed in the product description and a photo of the piece in the frame is on the site. Here is a sampling of some of the one-and-only oil paintings available for purchase. Learn more on the website.
