SARAH

Painted this portrait of my daughter, Sarah, from a photo recently taken at our church. The stained glass windows were removed, due to the church's relocation, which created some brighter-than-normal lighting – took advantage of the conditions to capture this shot. Enjoyed painting the contrast of the cool shadows and warm highlights. Yes, her hair is naturally that curly. Was happy with this painting because it really does capture her – the look in her eyes, the crossed arms and ballerina-straight posture – it's definitely her. Pleased with how this painting turned out. Learn more about this painting under the "Private Collection" section of the website.

Hi everyone. Very excited by recent events. "Crash" recently completed it's stay at the Allentown Art Museum, and will be moving down Route 222 to the Reading Museum. And, "A Pile Of Soldiers" has won it's first award – check out the article below. Thanks for your continued support - stop out to the show.

"A PILE OF SOLDIERS" WINS COMPETITION!

"A Pile Of Soldiers" is already making it's mark. This painting won 2nd place out of 358 entrants in The Berks Art Alliance's Annual Juried Exhibition! And, this painting was featured in the July 12th Reading Eagle newspaper article on this show. Both "A Pile of Soldiers" and "Crash" were entered – both were accepted and will be on display, along with the 120 other pieces selected for this exhibition, at the Reading Museum. This is Berks County's largest juried art exhibition, showcasing most media including watercolor, oil, acrylic and pastel paintings as well as photography, sculpture, fiber art and more. What started out as a small regional show, first held at the Museum in 1977, has grown into an open event that has attracted national and international entries from as far away as Columbia, South America. This exhibition will be on display Sunday, July 12 through Sunday, September 6. Please stop on out.

Thank you to the Berks Art Alliance and jurors Nancy Barch (prominent Philadelphia area watercolor artist and current Vice President of Exhibitions for the American Watercolor Society of New York) and Douglas Wiltraut (one of America's foremost painters in egg tempera and dry brush watercolor) for their recognition of my work.

"A Pile of Soldiers" is my largest and most complex painting to date. This 48" X 60" painting is a still life of toy soldiers and army-themed comic books. "Crash," completed last August, is a still life of nearly 100 toy cars and was on display this past Spring at the Allentown Art Museum.

NEW AMISH PAINTINGS AND PRINTS AVAILABLE

Painted this series of Amish-life paintings from reference photos taken along one of the main roads in Lancaster County. Passed an Amish buggy every few hundred yards. Some of the original oil paintings are available for purchase – take advantage of this rare opportunity to own an original. And, some are available as signed/numbered limited-edition giclée prints. Learn more on the website.

NEW YORK CITY

This painting is of our good friends Dave and Christine. Dave was my roommate in college and remains one of my best friends to this day. We take a weekend trip to New York once a year to catch a show and eat our way through the city. "Dave And Christine Take Broadway" was painted from a photo taken from one of these trips.
